

Oh, my! Where to start. How unAmerican this broadcast is, and what is this country coming to. It is vital to the survival of our democracy that fairness rule our airwaves. We, the people, should be able to insist on this fairness in a responsible way. I'm thinking, at this point in time, that even this ability to protest by all Americans is in danger.

It appears that media consolidation was a very bad idea.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of this reprehensible state of affairs. Americans are, of necessity, rising up in protest.

Perhaps since Sinclair uses their clout distinctly for the Republican Party, they should pay for their use of the public airwaves.

But, since they do not, they are obligated by law to serve the public interest. Last time I checked, this was a government of, by and for the people, not of, by and for corporate interests.

Sinclair's actions are unconscionable and indefensible; and, demonstrate why we need to strengthen media ownership rules,

instead of the
constant weakening
that is going on
now. It is past time that the license renewal
process involves
more than a rubber
stamp. Thank you.
